

Digital Approaches to Research in Humanities and Social Sciences - program

30 October 2019, Aarhus University, building 1485, room 226

Session 1 - “Research standards and collaboration” 9:15 - 9:30 Icebreaker activity

9:30 - 9:55 Trust but verify: implications of the reproducibility crisis on technology and practice in HASS disciplines Shawn Ross

9:55 - 10:20 Lessons learned from Data Analysis projects in Natural Language Processing with Japanese and Security Studies data - Shell Scripts, Jupyter Notebooks, and the value of doctests
Brian Ballsun-Stanton

10:20 - 10:45 Epigraphy.info and the Distributed Text Services. Collaboration with standards
Pietro Liuzzo

10:45 - 11:00 - Coffee break

Session 2 - “The realities of digital research”

11:00 - 11:25 Raising the dead; technical implications Katrine Frøkjær Baunvig

11:25 - 11:50 DISSINET experiences and challenges in transforming history into spatial and network data Tomáš Hampejs, Adam Mertel

11:50 - 12:15 Some challenges to coordinated, collaborative, and cross-cultural ethnographic work
Benjamin Purzycki

12:15 - 12:40 Social media data triangulation - The Danish HPV controversy as an example Marie Louise Tørring

12:40 - 13:30 - Lunch

Session 3 - “Social Dynamics in the Ancient Mediterranean research group showcase”

13:30 - 13:45 Petrified voices: the evolution of the Graeco-Roman epigraphic production in space and time Petra Heřmánková

13:45 - 14:00 Social dynamics in the ancient Mediterranean and the cultural evolution of moralizing religions: a text-mining approach Vojtěch Kaše

14:00 - 14:15 Analysis with graph representation of complex networks in R: the case of Group of Twenty countries Antonio Rivero Ostoic

14:15 - 14:30 Small data - Big Challenges: the goals and mission of the SDAM project Adela Sobotkova

14:30 - 15:00 - Coffee break

15:00 - 16:00 “eResearch speed dating!” social activity & un-conference

